Shareholders to Receive Dividend of $5.18 per Share

Doyon, Limited shareholders will receive a dividend of $5.18 per share, or $518 per 100 shares, this year. The Doyon board of directors voted to approve the 2015 dividend amount at the August 1 quarterly meeting. The 2015 dividend, which increased from 2014's dividend amount of $4.95 per share, will be disbursed to shareholders on December 8.

"Doyon is pleased to announce a dividend of $5.18 per share to our 19,000-plus shareholders," said Doyon President and CEO Aaron Schutt. "Doyon and our family of companies had another banner year, and it is with pleasure we are able to pass our profits on to our shareholders."

Since 1987, Doyon has paid an annual dividend to shareholders. Doyon's dividend policy states that 50 percent of the corporation's five-year average net income (in this case, $19,476,550) will be paid out as dividends. Based on the policy, Doyon will pay $9,738,275 in dividends for the year 2015.

Shareholders are strongly encouraged to sign up for direct deposit of dividends and update mailing addresses with the shareholder records department prior to the deadline of Tuesday, November 10, 2015. Signing up for direct deposit and updating addresses ahead of time will minimize dividend receipt delays.

Message to Shareholders

Dear Shareholders,

It's already October! It feels like just yesterday was the beginning of the year, and yet here we are more than a month into the school year.

Our younger, Class C shareholders make up more than half of our more than 19,300 shareholders. Many of them are starting a new school year: from kindergarten to PhD programs. We at Doyon wish each a successful school year and urge all to take full advantage of their educational opportunities.

Our 2015 fiscal year came to a close on September 30. We had an incredibly strong year financially and had a high rate of shareholder employment. While our financials have not been finalized, we do expect it to be the best year in the company's history. We are also on pace to pay more than $40 million in shareholder wages in FY 2015. Our success is due to the hard work and dedication of our thousands of employees and I would like to recognize and commend them for this year's performance.

I'm pleased to report that Rig 142 is on its way to Alaska from Canada via trucks. It should be commissioned in early 2016. Several members from the board of directors had the opportunity to visit the construction site in Edmonton, Canada to see first-hand the enormity of the project and the progress of Doyon's investment. Included in this newsletter is an article that provides more details and photos of the trip.

In August, we announced that we will issue a shareholder dividend of $5.18/share to all shareholders in December. In preparation for issuing the dividend, we held a direct deposit drive, and it pleases me to report that 8,248 shareholders have signed up for direct deposit. As a reminder, if you have changed your address recently, or are included on the bad address list on our website, be sure to update your contact information by November 23. There is a dividend article in this newsletter that provides more details.

Finally, I am pleased with the announcement by the Obama administration to officially change the name of the "High One" back to its original name, Denali. Our very own shareholder and honored elder, Poldine Carlo, greeted President Obama as he arrived in Alaska by singing the Denali song. It was a very fitting welcome on such a momentous occasion.

Thank you for your support of our corporation.

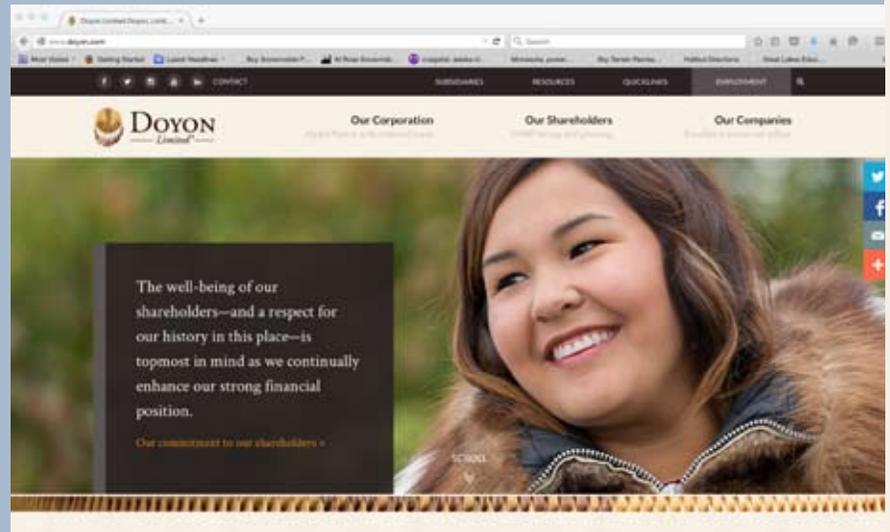

Sincerely,

Aaron M. Schutt
President and CEO

“The addition of Rig 142 to Doyon’s fleet is a testament to ConocoPhillips’ commitment to Alaska. This opportunity is good for Doyon, our shareholders and Alaska.”

Aaron Schutt, Doyon President/CEO

Subsidiary News: Doyon Drilling Introduces New Rig 142

Doyon Drilling, Inc. (DDI) is in the process of adding a new state-of-the-art rig to its fleet – Rig 142. The new rig was engineered and built in Canada, before being transported via truck to the North Slope, where it is currently being assembled. Rig 142 will be contracted to ConocoPhillips for five years, and the company expects to begin operations in February 2016.

Doyon Rig 141 played a significant role in the ultimate construction of Rig 142. In 1995, DDI identified a stacked rig on the North Slope that was being cannibalized for parts. The actual structure and subbases were solid, and DDI determined it had the potential to be a valuable rig if it had a new moving system and could be reconfigured for 25-foot well spacing.

DDI approached Parker Drilling, the rig owner, to enter into a joint venture for the rig, named Doyon Parker Rig 141. DDI purchased 75 percent of the rig and Parker retained 25 percent ownership. Once the rig restructuring was complete, DDI became the rig operator. Rig 141 was in poor condition, but after being repaired and modified, it became the most versatile rig in DDI’s fleet.

In 1998, during the industry downturn, DDI purchased the remaining 25 percent ownership interest in the rig and contracted it to BP for a multi-well program at Milne Point. The rig had great success performing pad drilling on 30-foot well spacing and could be mobilized in winter. This capability resulted in longer-term contracts for the rig to drill multiple exploratory wells during the winter. However, after several years of drilling in Kuparuk, there were fewer wells with the well spacing required for Rig 141 to operate, and it appeared that the rig would not be able to work year-round.

ConocoPhillips had been pleased with the DDI Rig 141’s performance and requested a rig study to determine if a new drilling subbase would allow the rig to drill on 10-foot well spacing. An additional requirement was that the drilling module be lightweight and able to move across ice bridges. The existing Rig 141 modules, including two pipe shed units, mud pit modules, mud pump module, power module, and support module, would be integrated into the new Rig 141 subbase. The feasibility study was completed and DDI was contracted to build the subbase.

When the new drilling module was nearly complete, ConocoPhillips decided to retain Rig 141 in its current state and integrate new modules into the new subbase. They requested a study to determine the time frame and cost for completing the rig modules. The study and engineering was completed and ConocoPhillips decided that this new rig would be named Rig 142.

Construction of Rig 142 began in May 2014 with rig commissioning in August. The remaining modules were engineered and built by Dresco in Canada. A number of Doyon, Limited board members and senior management, as well as ConocoPhillips management staff, visited the Dresco/NOV fabrication facility in late July 2015. At that time, they

2016 Daaga' Awards Applications Due January 8

"Get up, move, do something." This is the meaning of the word Daaga' and the spirit of the Doyon Daaga' Award. Proposals for the 2016 Daaga' Awards will be accepted until the deadline of Friday, January 8, 2016 by 5 p.m. Applications are available at www.doyon.com.

Since 1990, the Daaga' Awards have provided more than $220,000 in funding to Interior Native individuals and organizations to help promote drug- and alcohol-free communities and programs.

values, and encourage programs that integrate spiritual, social and economic needs of the communities.

The number of awards are limited, and proposals may be granted up to $3,000 per funding period. The awarded amount is dependent on the number of proposals received and the need of the program as described in the application and supporting materials. Applicants may not always receive the full amount. For this reason, Daaga' should be considered supplemental funding and not be the only support sought when funding a program. Nine Shareholders Graduate Roustabout Training Doyon, Limited and Tanana Chiefs Conference (TCC) celebrated the graduates of the 37th roustabout training class at a ceremony held August 21 in Anchorage, Alaska. The nine graduates trained for three consecutive weeks at the University of Alaska Anchorage Mining and Petroleum Training Service Center in Anchorage.

This year's graduates included Nathan Angel-Huntington, Travis Charlie, Donald Maki, David Miller, Jr., Tristan Northway, Curtis Tindall, Jr., Conrad Turner, Ryan Olin and DeAdra Zeller.

"Congratulations to each one of you. Graduating this program is a great accomplishment. We are proud of you," said Doyon, Limited President and CEO Aaron Schutt.

Since 1982, Doyon and TCC have partnered to recruit, select and train eligible Doyon shareholders to work as roustabouts for Doyon Drilling, Inc. (DDI). Roustabouts are entry-level general drill rig laborers. To be qualified to work as a roustabout, the candidate must be selected and successfully complete the roustabout training course, be physically capable of performing the work as verified by a post-offer, pre-employment medical screening, and pass a drug and alcohol test. Once employed, all DDI employees are subject to random drug and alcohol testing.

Employment on Alaska's North Slope, where DDI's primary operations take place, is rewarding, but harsh and demanding. Employees work in cold, remote conditions for 12 hours a day on a two-weeks-on and two-weeks-off rotating schedule. The work is physical, involving lifting, bending, carrying and exerting energy for extended periods of time. DDI rigs operate non-stop, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Employees can expect to work during holidays and sacrifice key cultural and family events if these fall during their scheduled work rotations.

Roustabout training is a great way to build career experience and capabilities. Doyon encourages all eligible shareholders to apply for opportunities that suit their needs and interests.

For more information regarding the roustabout training, contact shareholder outreach at outreach@doyon.com, 459-2127 (in Fairbanks) or 1-888-478-4755 (toll-free).

DLT is an intense, 10-month program that focuses on the personal growth and leadership of the participants. Training is held two consecutive days per month.

The program is a great opportunity for shareholders looking to build leadership experience, and Doyon encourages all eligible shareholders to apply for opportunities that suit their needs and interests.

Foundation Ceremony Celebrates 277 Scholarship Recipients

K'eegwaadhat t'aih shats'an ahtsii...Yeendaa leii agwahal'ee geenjit. Nigwizhii, nich'ee't'eegwiniindhan khit shaa'ooli'.

God give me strength...So I may learn much in the future. May your wisdom and love always be with me. (Gwich'in)

These are the words that marked the start of the 2015 Doyon Foundation Scholarship Award Ceremony on September 11 in Fairbanks. Allan Hayton, the Foundation's language revitalization program director, wrote the prayer as a blessing for the students.

The ceremony, which took place in the Doyon Industrial Facility cafeteria, celebrated the Foundation's 277 fall scholarship recipients. A total of $342,000 in scholarships, including full-time basic, part-time basic and competitive scholarships, was awarded this fall.

Among the scholarships awarded was the Vincent Troy Williams Memorial Scholarship, created in memory of Vincent "Troy" Williams by his sister, Kristie Williams-Cuttriss.

"We created the scholarship because we know that what we give and what others give today will collectively help future generations attend college. Creating this opportunity for others is important not only for our family personally, but for our entire community," Williams-Cuttriss said.

Approximately 50 people attended the celebration, including about a dozen scholarship recipients. Among the guests were alumna speaker Jessica Black, a PhD candidate in social work and an assistant professor/special projects liaison in the Office of the Vice Chancellor at the University of Alaska Fairbanks (UAF), and student speaker Joseph Bifelt, a Committee's Choice competitive scholarship recipient and student at UAF pursuing a bachelor's degree in secondary education.

The event also included acknowledgement of the Foundation's donors and supporters. The Foundation extended a special thank you to Tanana Chiefs Conference (TCC), which doubled its donation to the Foundation's health competitive scholarship from $5,000 to $10,000 this year.
